Asce Manual 70

The 2 nd edition of Manual 70 prepared by the ASCE Task Committee on Evapotranspiration (ET) in Irrigation and Hydrology and edited by Marvin E. Jensen and Richard G. Allen has been released in 2015 by the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE) after years of work by the editors and six member task committee. The second edition is a significantly expanded version of the first edition published in 1990.

ASCE Manuals and Reports on Engineering Practice (Manuals of Practice, or MOPs) present in-depth technical information on a specific topic and provide detailed analysis of the limitations and applications of the described methods and technologies. The practical information contained in MOPs is useful to the typical civil engineer in everyday work.

Thirteen appendixes provide tables of mean and basal crop coefficients and background information on concepts and equations used throughout the manual. MOP 70 is intended for use by consulting engineers and scientists working on water issues and by instructors of agricultural and civil engineering, hydrology, and environmental and agricultural sciences.

Following the last ASCE Electrical Transmission and Substation Conference (Columbus, OH in 2012), the current roster of the Task Committee on Electrical Transmission Line Structural Loading was assembled to work towards updating ASCE Manual of Practice No. 74: Guidelines for Electrical Transmission Line Structural Loading (ASCE-74).

The basis of the standardized reference ET equation is the ASCE Penman-Monteith (ASCE-PM) method discussed in ASCE Manual of Practice 70, Evapotranspiration and Irrigation Water Requirements. Along with applications of the ASCE-PM method, this report includes recommended calculations for vapor pressure, net radiation and wind speed adjustment, and guidelines on assessing weather data integrity and estimating values for missing data.
